He says that while there are not wanting good and capable men in the public service, corrupt and unscrupulous men abound in it also. This is a frank confession, and its truth is undisputed. And yet no effort is made to purge the official ranks of these harpies, who admittedly fatten on the miseries of the speedy recovery of Crown Debts for Rents and wretched people, over whom they are entrusted with great, and, in some cases, unlimited powers -- "Functionaries of this class," says the Censor, "make use of judicial positions for their own ends, aided and abetted by their underlings, making the wrong appear the better cause, and turning and twisting in such wise as to involve the innocent in misfortune." The superior authorities will not, it seems, deal personally on the ground of some flaw in the proceedit back to be tried over again by the same Tuesday evening at the City Hall, when there court as before. Hence arise the appeals to will be a grand Masonic complimentary fare-Peking, of which the number is so great, it is stated, that time does not serve for so much as their perusal. On an appeal being lodged, the invariable course is to refer the matter back to the provincial authorities for re-hearing, and the complainant is forwarded, Morning Herald of the 8th June, noticing the under escort, to be forthcoming when required | presentation to her of a handsome gold locket to give his evidence. No doubt the intention of the Government in this procedure is just, but the issue is most disastrous

"How little," exclaims Teng, "is it dreamt that, from the moment an appeal is remitted for re-hearing, all prospect of redress is gone for ever, and the injustice complained against sion comes from a Chinese-official, it-must be remembered, and it may safely be assumed that there is no exaggeration in it. He goes on to explain this statement by saying that some of the appellants die in the places where they are held in durance, others die in the course of the journey-often a very tedious one-they have to take, and although the official reports are all to the effect that "death has taken place from disease," he broadly hints that sinister means are often employed to get rid of those who refuse to submit to have their cases dismissed or compromised. On an appellant being conveyed is remitted, as in its earlier stages, to the Central Criminal Court, and though the parties may be forthwith summoned to appear, months and years may still elapse before the trial, during which the complainant languishes in confinement. Often the poor victim of "the law's delay" is carried to that bourne of the weary, the grave, before the day of hearing arrives, but supposing the result is either that the appellant is sentenced as guilty of bringing a calumnious charge, or he is adjudged to have been misled by mere suspicion into laying an unfounded ac- recovering. cusation. The Rev. E. Z. Simmons was the subject of his deep solicitude, and the one against whom the charges had been preferred. The Celestial asked for a copy of the Chronicle of May 6, 1875, and it being furnished him, he proceeded to point out an account of a marriage performed in a variety theatre by a Baptist clergyman. That was Mr. Simmons, and Ab Gin did not consider him a good man. Then he gave a very graphic account of the trial. How be had talked to the ministerial investigators till they really were ashamed of themselves; how he proved the charges, one by one, and finally how his beautiful argument had been ruthlessly scattered by the decision in Simmons' favor. It was a tear-forcing recital. The placid Mongolian shed no tears, but the reporter did saffron-colored Christian had received at the effect of his eloquence. MOR comprehen aveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are sises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typo- Swatow graphy displays the success of an attempt to dmoy make the Chinese and English type correspond Formosa in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast Foothow. vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chaimers Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhorst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as London..... many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Ohinese. In this respect the work will be found Indispensable to all Europeans residing in The China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

SUNRISE IN VENICE. Night accms troubled and scarce aslesn: Her brows are gathered in broken rest; Sullen old lion of dark St. Mark, And a star in the east starts up from the deep, White as my lilies that grow in the west. Hist I mon are passing hurriedly. I ace the yellow wide wings of a bark . Sail silently over my morning star. I see men move in the moving dark. Tall and silent as columns are-Great sinewy men that are good to see, With hair mashed back and with onen breasts. Barefooted ashermen seeking their boats. Brown as walnuts and hairy as goats-Brave old water-dogs, wed to the sea,

First to their labors and last to their rusts. Shine are moving | I hear a horn; allver trumpet it sounds to me. Deep-voiced and musical, far a-sca-Answers back and umin it calls. 'Tis the sentincl boats that watch the town All night, as mounting her wetery walls, And watching for pinte or amuggler. Down Over the sea, and reaching away, And against the east, a soft light falls-Silvery soft as the mist of morn, And I catch a breath like the breath of day.

The cast is blossoming! Yea, a rose, Vust no the heavens, soft as a kies, Sweet as the presence of woman is, Rises and reaches and widens and arows Right out of the sea, as a blossoming tree; Richer and richer, so higher and higher, Deeper and deeper if takes its bue; Brighter and brighter it reaches through ... The space of heaven and the place of stars, Till oil is as rich as a rose can be, 🐱 And my rose leaves fall into billows of fire. Then beams reach upward as arms from a sea; Then lances and arrows are aimed at me." Then lances and spongl's and spore and bars Are broken and shivered and strewn on the sca And around and about me tower and spire. Start from the billows like tangues of fire. -Joaquin Miller.

OUTWARD SHOW. How often do we try, and persevere in tryqualities. Without anything within to correspond, just like children who plant blossoms without any roots in the ground to make a pretty show for the hour. ought to produce. MODERN SCEPTICISM. Science has done wonders, and cannot be too highly extolled but why should its Policies issued for long or short periods at worshippers not be content with the just praise of it? why should they, great and small, professors and sciolists, be so anxious to exalt it at the expense of the only faith which really elevates their kind? If, instead of labouring to shake old beliefs, men of science were able to present a now system, good, bad, or indifferent, which they could YANGTSZE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION prove to be true, then their proceedings would require no apology; but they do nothing of the kind. They have only human faculties; and human faculties, although they may continually be acquiring new facts to work upon, and improved methods of dealing with those facts are not one whit seen and the unseen than they were in the earliest days of science. They can display to us the operations of certain powers in a manner quite new, and full of interest; but about the origin, intention, and duration of these powers they can tell us positively nothing. The irreligious philosophy of a century ugo seemed to think TAROM this date, until further notice, a disnot for priestcraft and superstition.
